BULBS

The Pacific Coast is the Home of Commercial Bulb Production for many items. For years, the H. A. HYDE COMPANY has enjoyed distinction among the largest growers and dealers, wholesale and retail, in domestic and foreign bulbous stocks. You can depend on our quality.

QUALITY—California garden conditions present a true test for Daffodils, Tulips and certain other Spring Flowering Bulbs. The top sizes, with few exceptions, and finest quality are necessary for maximum results. Extra quality bulbs are selected for our California trade which assures you of the best wherever you are.

GUARANTEE—While we guarantee all bulbs to be of the variety specified, true to color and to arrive in good condition, and hold ourselves in readiness on proper proof to replace free of charge all that may prove untrue to label, or refund the amount paid, it is mutually understood and agreed between the purchaser and ourselves that our guarantee of genuineness shall in no case make us liable for any sum greater than that originally received for said bulbs or other merchandise that may prove untrue.

Please advise immediately of any complaints.. Should any damage result through carrying agencies, we wish to know without delay so that we may make the proper replacements and not disappoint you in your needs.

Although Tulips, Daffodils and other spring flowering bulbs can be planted with fair success as late as the last of December if the bulbs have been stored under ideal conditions, we recommend October and November as the best planting months.

PRICES—Prices for bulbs in this catalog are quoted postpaid to points as far as the Rocky Mountains. For greater distances, add 10%. If you overpay the transportation charges, we will refund the difference.

Six Bulbs sold at the dozen rate; 25 bulbs at the hundred rate. Quantity discounts on orders as follows:

Orders for 500 to 1,000 bulbs— 5% Discount

Orders for 1,000 to 1,500 bulbs—10% Discount

Orders for 1,500 bulbs or more—15% Discount

However, orders for mixtures and special collections cannot be included in computing these quantity discounts and we can give no special quantity reductions for mixtures because of their low quotations.

LET US PLAN YOUR SPRING FLOWERING GARDENS. Our flowering records are available and a postcard from you will bring an answer or a representative to answer your many questions of flowering seasons, color and type characteristics, etc.

Intelligent selection of tulip varieties will prolong the Spring Blossoming Season and enhance the color scheme of the garden.

CULTURAL NOTES. We believe that no Bulb Catalog is complete without instructions for planting and care. We are BULB GROWERS in addition to our activities as BULB DEALERS and we cannot stress too heavily the proper attention to these details.

Commercial Daffodil Field in Oregon. Your bulbs will come from fields like this. Finest quality is assured.

Production of Dutch Iris in Oregon and Washington States where the cool, moist weather prolongs the Spring season and furnishes our customers with stock free from mosaic troubles.

Coastal Valleys of Central California are the home of White Calla Lily production. A mild winter and cool spring-time gives a vigor necessary in first quality roots.

You will find instructions throughout this catalog but we wish to stress that all Bulb Gardens should not be allowed to dry out during the growing and flowering season. Only by careful attention to this detail can you achieve the maximum results. Remember that the plants obtain moisture through the roots and a damp surface condition does not necessarily mean that they have an adequate water supply. Keep them well watered.

DAFFODILS—NARCISSUS

VARIETIES—The varieties here are but a few of the many hundreds available from the northern fields. We have carefully prepared this selection as representing full value for their cost and have tested their adaptability to gardens of the Pacific Coast. Write for prices on other varieties with which you may be familiar.

A few bulbs of the higher priced novelties will give unlimited satisfaction for many years to come. They are investments which grow to better volume year after year.

FLOWERING SEASONS (California Conditions)

As a general rule, the Polyanthus Narcissus are the first to flower, starting in December and followed first by the early Yellow Trumpets, then in order the Jonquils and Jonquil Hybrids, Poetaz, Incomparabilis, Leedsii and Late Trumpets, ending the season with the Barrii and Poeticus. The long flowering season of the Narcissus family extends from early December through April.

CULTURE

NOTE—Planting depth throughout this book refers to the depth of soil covering the bulb.

Our interest in your order goes beyond the shipping operation. We are anxious that the bulbs shall not only arrive in your hands in the best of condition, but we wish them to be planted right. Your strict adherence to a few simple rules of proper planting and care should give the greatest of joy and satisfaction in the results.

PLANTING—Our experience has taught us the following method as the simplest and most expedient method for garden planting. Remove with a shovel the soil from the bed or area to the proper depth (six to ten inches in the case of Daffodils) and spade the bottom of the excavation.

With the bed so prepared, set the bulbs at their proper spacing and cover with loose soil. This method sets the bulbs at a uniform depth and should be more easily accomplished than by planting in individual holes with a trowel or spade. It is not only simpler but does a really first-class job.

In cooler climates, daffodils should be planted on an average of six inches deep. Heavy soils should be lightened by spading in peat to a depth of ten inches. Never let manure come in contact with the bulbs, although it is helpful to mulch the top of the ground with well rotted cow manure and Gaviota Fertilizer after planting.

CULTURE—Daffodils should do well in either sun or partial shade in cool climates. In warmer locations partial shade is preferable, and the bulbs should be planted at least eight inches deep. The ground should not be allowed to dry out after planting.

After flowering, the foliage must be left until thoroughly ripe; removing it before will jeopardize bloom the following year. If it becomes unsightly, it may be tied down and inter-planted ground covers will help to hide the foliage during the curing period. When thoroughly ripened, the tops may then either be cut off or the bulbs may be lifted and stored in a cool, well ventilated place until ready for replanting.

Protect the bulbs from sunburn while they are out of the ground.

Daffodils left in the ground, however will multiply and the ordinary summer watering will not affect them. If left in the flower border, they should be lifted and separated after three years. At such times, the bulbs should dry after digging for about three weeks; then separate the loose side bulbs. However, you should understand that ruthless division of the clumps injures the root bases. Unless the main bulbs and off-shoots almost fall apart during the digging and handling, they should be replanted without separating. Daffodils which are used entirely for naturalizing effects should be left undisturbed indefinitely.

Many of these varieties are novelties and greatly limited in supply. Early orders will insure delivery. SUBSTITUTIONS will be made in case we are sold out of the variety you order unless you specify "no substitutions."

The following prices, except where noted are for No. 1 size double-nose bulbs, all of which should flower with two or more flower-stalks. You will find some varieties listed here as single-nose. We feel that those varieties are beyond the purse of many of our customers where offered in the top-size double-nose bulbs. We therefore call your attention to their prices in this single-nose size bulb. For double-nose bulbs in these cases add 25%.

Single-nose bulbs do not flower quite so profusely as the larger double-nose stock, but the flowers produced have as fine stems and blossoms and afford opportunity to include these finer novelties in the garden collection without as much cost.

While the time-honored standard varieties such as King Alfred, Tresserve, etc. are unsurpassed for the finest garden effects, there is a trend with our customers toward some of the newer magnificent, yet inexpensive sorts, especially in the large trumpet varieties. We have marked (*) these better sorts in an effort to help you make your selection from these strong growing, vigorous varieties.

TULIPS

Tulip prices for the finer varieties in the past few years have been greatly reduced and the average garden is no longer restricted to the comparatively few well-known varieties. We offer in this list a complete selection of the finest varieties available at appealing prices.

We have carefully tested these and find them particularly adapted to Pacific Coast conditions.

We call your attention to a few tulips in this list marked with an asterisk (*). These are varieties of exceptional quality and you will find them quoted here very reasonably.

TULIP CULTURE

NOTE—Planting depth throughout this book refers to the depth of soil covering the bulb.

While tulips grown in the full sun should give good results, it is best to plant them in partial shade. This is essentially true in very warm sections. This will protect them against unexpected warm spells during the growing and flowering season and should produce longer stems, a longer blooming season, and prevent scorching of the flowers.

Lighten heavy soil with peat moss, avoid manure except as a mulch and spread a little sand under the bulbs when planting.

PLANTING—Our experience has taught us the following method as simplest and most expedient for garden planting. Remove with a shovel the soil from the bed or area to the proper depth (normally six to eight inches in the case of Tulips) and spade the bottom of the excavation.

With the bed so prepared, set the bulbs at their proper spacing and cover with loose soil. This method sets the bulbs at a uniform depth and should be more easily accomplished than by planting in individual holes with a trowel or spade. It is not only simpler but does a really first-class job.

Tulips succeed best when planted at a uniform depth of from five to eight inches, according to soil conditions. This uniform planting is essential to insure all individuals of a given variety to bloom at the same time and to grow to a uniform height. This appearance is the essence of a perfect bed of tulips.

Tulips should be planted deep in California. Under ideal conditions, we have found them to succeed best with six inches of soil covering them. Somewhat shallower planting is necessary under less favorable conditions and it is impossible to make this general recommendation for their best behavior. Drainage and care of the garden are important contributing factors. Tulips are happiest growing under cool, moist conditions to develop the best root system.

CULTURE—In California gardens, Tulip bulbs resent drying out. If they are to be transplanted, do not hold them on trays through the dry summer and early fall months. Replant them in their permanent locations immediately and the ordinary summer watering of the garden necessary for other plants is perfectly satisfactory for their best behavior.

The tulip bulbs which you purchase from us will be of the highest possible quality carefully grown by the world's finest producers and should give maximum results the first year. Following this season's bloom, we suggest moving them to a cut-flower garden where they may remain in the ground indefinitely to be used for picking.

Do not anticipate a summer harvest of tulip bulbs equal in size and quality to those planted. From year to year under California garden conditions they will lose vitality.

The show gardens should be replanted each Fall with top quality stock and if the small bulbs from the old planting are discarded, a cut flower garden can be maintained from the transplanted bulbs.

We stress the absolute necessity of the very finest quality Tulips for our exacting California conditions. Our Holland growers understand this and promise us the best of the Holland crops. Our Tulips should give you superior results regardless of where you live.

The following tulip prices are for strictly top-size Imported bulbs of exceptional quality.

TUBEROUS ROOTED BEGONIAS

Tuberous Rooted Begonias are one of our specialties. We use the finest of hybridized seed and grow our plants in the open fields to produce the hardiest tubers.

Tuberous Begonia Varieties—Tuberous Begonias are classified according to color and type. The single produces the largest flower and is especially valuable for colorful beds and borders. Offered in eight uniform colors; white, pink, rose, scarlet, crimson, yellow, salmon and orange.

The Double Camellia type is perhaps the most popular; being of the greatest substance and having a very wide color variation. Offered in the same eight colors as the single but with a wide range of shades, and in addition, a double apricot.

The Double White, scarlet (bright red), crimson (dark red), orange and yellow are true, distinct shades.

The Double Pink varies from light flesh and salmon colors through the darker shades of rose and carmine.

The Double Salmon varies from the pink through the salmon and orange shades.

The Double Apricot varies from the salmon through the light and deep orange and orange-red shades including gold and orange-yellow. A very fascinating range of colors.

The Rose-bud is rather an open double quite characteristic of its name. It is only available in a mixture containing shades of pinks, salmon-pinks, and salmon—all pastel colors.

The Carnation-flowering Begonia (Fimbriata, or double fringed) is offered in white, yellow, red, orange and pink.

The frilled is a single flower with heavily ruffled edges. Like the Crested (single with a frilled or ruffled tongue covering the center of the petals) this type is offered in white, yellow, red, orange and pink.

The Marmorata is a double camellia type speckled red and variegated with mottled white and cream; only the one color.

Lloydii is the Trailing or Hanging Basket Begonia; many small fuchsia-like single and double flowers hanging in clusters. Available only in a choice mixture.

Begonia bulbs are ready from January to May inclusive. The experienced gardener can start his bulbs in early February to produce the earliest of flowers in the spring. Prices of begonia bulbs; postpaid.

Jumbo Size—$.25 each. $2.50 dozen. $18.00 per 100.

First Size—$.20 each. $2.00 dozen. $15.00 per 100.

Bedding Size—$.10 each. $1.00 dozen. $7.50 per 100.

Note—Large size tubers produce larger plants with more flowers and blossom earlier. The blossoms, however, are not larger than from smaller bedding size tubers.

SEEDLING PLANTS FOR LATER PLANTING

After the danger of frost is over late in May, we offer seedling plants to bloom in the garden from July to November inclusive.

Prices; prepaid to all California points: $1.50 dozen. $10.00 per 100. We ship seedlings successfully throughout the United States.

Single

Crested

You may order bulbs and seedling plants in the above color and type assortments, but you must expect some color variation.

From July to November we offer large field plants in full bloom at $.40 each. $3.50 dozen. These may be ordered according to true, distinct shades such as peach, flesh, deep orange, etc.

For those who wish bulbs delivered in the spring in distinct shades within the color variety, we will stake the bulbs in the field during the blossoming season and deliver these tubers at 50% increase above the regular bulb prices. Pay us a visit and stake the individual plants you desire, or send us instructions and we will stake them for you according to our best judgment.

HOLLYHOCK BEGONIA (Begonia martiana grandiflora)—A tall mostly unbranching plant; the growth being quite characteristic of its name. Growing to a height of 18 to 24 inches, delightful soft pink single blossoms are borne in the leaf axils. Use for background planting in the Begonia bed. Bulbs $.50 each. $5.00 dozen.

Double (Camellia Flowering) Type

PLANTING AND CARE

In the spring the dormant tubers show pink swellings at the center of the crown. They should then be potted in rich loose soil, preferably leaf mold. Be sure the drainage is good and that the tuber is so placed that the top center is not far under the soil. Water sparingly until the first leaves form, increasing the moisture supply after that time as the plant develops. After they are well established they can be transplanted to the bed or boxes or grown on in the pots for house plants. The best growing soil seems to be a mixture one-third each of loam, leaf-mold or peat and well rotted cow manure. Barely cover the top of the tubers with soil. Too early or too deep planting may kill the tubers. Plant concave side up. They thrive in partial shade—such as window boxes having a northern or eastern exposure where they do not get too much direct sunlight—under oak trees—or in partial shade in the garden. As house plants do not put them too close to a window as the direct sun through the glass might injure the plant.

Camellia

In the late fall when the tops die down water should be withheld until the plant dries out. The tubers should then be lifted, shaken free from the soil, or left in the pots, stored in a cool dry place, preferably a dark shelf, until planting time.

FOR CHRISTMAS—We arrange attractive Christmas Gift Boxes of Begonia tubers at our regular prices, mailed postpaid. No gift is more highly appreciated by the garden lover.

BERRY PLANTS

For years, the name "HYDE COMPANY" has been associated with berry plants. We have developed and introduced many of the standard varieties and have studied their adaptation to the different conditions of soil, climate, etc. in California; observing closely the quality of fruit from the standpoint of flavor and shipping qualities.

Every family should have its own garden and berry patch. We are qualified to advise both for home and commercial planting and offer you the best grade in standard and new varieties. Confer with us.

SEED POTATOES

Our Mr. H. A. Hyde was reared in the potato section of Aroostook County, Maine. For over a quarter century, we have worked with seed potatoes on the Pacific Coast. A reward to our efforts came in the year 1927 when a yield of 675 sacks was had from our seed in the Stockton Delta, taking the world's record away from the European Countries.

Annually, we ship many carloads from our north-west growing fields to all parts of the west. Our seed has found favor in Russia, England, Honolulu and other foreign markets. The Colma and Monterey early sections of California still ask for "Hyde's Garnets." Our Low Top Burbanks produce the world-famed "Salinas Burbank" and are used in Nevada, the Stockton Delta, and other sections. We offer selected strains—a sack or a carload. Look for Hyde's Branded bag. Write for prices.

FRUIT TREES

BUDWOOD for our fruit trees is all carefully selected by our organization — from the strongest and most prolific trees in the best orchards of our state. This is important in perpetuating types that are shapely and uniform with the desired coloration; trees that are regular and heavy producers. The trees we supply on your order will not only be clean and vigorous and true to name but will be from the best yielding and most profitable types.

Trees having poor, inferior root systems are carefully culled at digging time and you may depend upon receiving for your order first class stock with strong root system properly graded into its respective size.

Send for prices.

DUTCH HYACINTHS

The most natural, truly graceful Hyacinth plant is produced from medium size bulbs, classified as bedding size. This grade is the most suitable for outdoor planting in formal parks or in drifts. This is an economical size, allowing the gardener to plant more than with the expensive sizes. Hyacinths lose grace when the bulbs gain in size; Tulips gain grace and quality when the bulbs are stronger.

The strongest, richest effect will be achieved with the planting of Top Size bulbs. However, our Bedding Size is a liberal size for this purpose and will produce plants of exceptional grace and strength.

We urge the planting of Miniature Hyacinths for the garden. The name is perhaps misleading as the blossoms are not of miniature size. The flower spike is quite as large as from the top-size bulbs and the characteristics of color, fragrance, size of bells, etc. are identical, but the spike is more graceful; not so compact. Use these Miniature Hyacinths for massive border effects; they are so much more economical.

HARDY LILIES

Lily bulbs are ready during the Fall and early Winter. They should be out of the ground a minimum of time and you should send us your order in advance to send you the stock when dug, cured and ready for shipment.

Spring planting is also satisfactory if the bulbs have been kept in good condition. If you are re-vamping your lily beds in the Spring, let us hear from you and we may be able to furnish your requirements at that time.

It is important to plant lily bulbs at their proper depth. Some are stem-rooting and others root merely at the base. We specify the correct depth for planting in this catalog.

Good drainage is necessary. The lily bed should be prepared to a depth of about two feet, providing a loose, friable mixture of loam, gravel, sand and leafmold with a bottom of stones and rocks. Care in preparation of the soil will be well repaid.

While lilies love the sun, they are greatly benefited by suitable ground covers to form a protective ground mulch. We recommend the following:

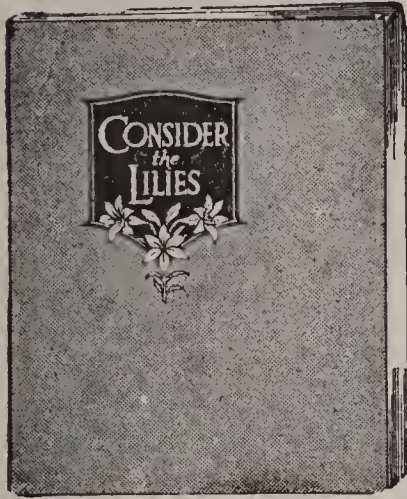

Achilleas, Ajuga reptans, Betonica grandiflora, many of the Campanula species, the Dicentra Formosa which forms a most delightful shade loving ground cover, the Fragaria, or trailing strawberries, Helleboris, or Christmas Rose, Incarvillea (Hardy Gloxinias) Polemoniums and Potentillas, Ranunculus repens (single and double) Trollius Hybrids and many of the Veronica Species.

Shrubs may also be planted advantageously for ground covers, among the most suitable being Abelianas, Rhododendrons, and many of the low growing Cotoneasters.

Do not expect too much from your Lily planting the first year. A lily bulb must establish itself and build a strong root system before the top shows the finest growth.

CALIFORNIA WILD FLOWER BULBS AND PLANTS

There are a few choice varieties of California Native Flower Bulbs which have lengthy blooming season and are attractive enough to be welcome additions to the cultivated gardens.

Many ask if we gather our wild flower bulbs and plants to the detriment of our charming woodland spots. We grow all of these species under cultivation with this objective of conserving our wild flowers.

CALOCHORTUS — Globe Strains. These pink, yellow and white Hairbells love the shade and protection of our woodlands, but prefer dry soil during their dormant summer season. Plant about three inches deep in groups for effect.

CALOCHORTUS—Mariposa Tulip Strains—These lovely Butterfly Tulips prefer a heavy soil with a minimum of moisture and the full sun. They will thrive in partial shade, but the tendency is toward weak stems, although they hold the flowers longer. Plant about three inches deep in groups for effect and it is important that they receive little moisture while dormant. Blossoming with their showy and beautifully colored flowers during April and May, Mariposa Tulips have no equal. They are excellent for cutting for the home with their graceful stems and nodding flowers. We offer a wide assortment of colors and shades.

One of the chief difficulties preventing successful culture of Mariposa Tulips apparently lies in improper water application. The bulb seems to require liberal irrigation during the natural rainy season and quite limited moisture supply during the spring flowering season.

Spray applications with Bordeaux Solution during the growing season seem quite necessary to control the rust of the foliage.
